The case of the Commonwealth vs. G. B. Terry was continued in the Hustings Court yesterday. The proceedings were brief, but interesting, and there were some developments which tended to strengthen the defence.

Just before the court adjourned on Friday night, and shortly after an allusion had been made to a Hanover warrant which Burnley Taylor swore was genuine and had been paid by him as his father's deputy to Milward Harris for the maintenance of Lewis Williams, a lunatic, Mr. Haw, one of the counsel for the defence, asked for an adjournment, adding sig-nificantly that a matter of importance required his presence at his home (which

It was expected that the instructions would be given to the jury yesterday morning, and that a verdlet would be returned during the day, but when the court convence at 11:20, Judge Witt, addressing the jury, said he saw no prospect of reaching a conclusion in the case that day, as some new evidence would be introduced by the defence, and if the accused was innocent every facility should be afforded him to prove his innocence. Judge Witt went on to say that the Hanover court records would be introduced by the defence, and as it would be impossible to get the book here before 3 o'clock, the court would adjourn until that hour. Commonwealth's-Attorney Smith stated that as the case had been reopened by the defence he would also introduce some new witnesses from Hanover county. The deputies were then sworn, and the court adjourned till the afternoon. court convened at 11:20, Judga Witt, ad-

THE WARRANT A FORGERY.

It was 3:30 in the afternoon when court was reopened, and Sergeant Tomlinson, who had been sent to Hanover Courthouse for the court records and to subpoena several witnesses, arrived at the con several with the case. The Han-Mr. Haw opened the case. The Han-over warrant was produced, and shown by the records to be a forgery. The entries on the books for the October court were then declared to be in the handwriting of Burnley Taylor by Clarence Taylor, his brother, who was placed on the stand by the defence. Charles Briggs testified that he had the declared to the stand of the

that he admitted that the warrant was a forgery.

Policeman C. A. Gibson was then called to the stand, and stated the details of the stand, and stated the details of the streat of Terry. Replying to the question whether Deputy-Sheriff Willtow had evinced any sorrow when acquainted with the charge against the prisoner, he said that on the contrary he appeared considerably elated, and went through several grotesque anties, expressive of delight. The witness said the deputy said on that occasion: "I thought so, buying sugar by the barrel, and paying $10 for a huggy."

The case was then turned over to the Commonwealth, who called to the stand, commonwealth, who called to the stand, successively, Messrs. Tebbs, Robinson, ware, and Neal, all of whom testified Ware, and Neal, all of whom testified Ware, and Neal, all of whom testified ware, and had always found him truthful and reliable in husiness transactions.

TAYLOR ADMITS THE FORGERY.

TAYLOR ADMITS THE FORGERY.

Burnley Taylor was then recalled to the stand. On being shown the Hanover warrant, and asked if it were genuine, he stated that he knew it to be forged. Asked when he arrived at that determination, he said that he had become connation, he stated further, that he had notified Mr. Smith by letter early yesterday morning that he had come to the conclusion the Hanover warrant was not conclusion the Hanover warrant was made at the Dodson House, he continued, and was endorsed by Terry, and negotiated by him through the Title and Trust Company, the continued and Trust Company, the continued and was endorsed by Terry, and negotiated by him through the Title and Trust Company, Terry had only given him to in cash and Terry had only given him to in cash and Terry had only given him to in cash and Terry had only given him to in cash and Terry had only given him to in cash and Terry had only given him to in cash and Terry had only given him to in cash and Terry had only given him to in cash and Terry had only given him to in cash and Terry had only given him to in cash and Terry had only given him to in cash and Terry had only given him to in cash and Terry had only given him to in cash and Terry had only given him to in cash and Terry had only given him to in cash and the territory is summer and the bis summer of the search was and that the bead and the had come to the continued and the him to be a contin endorsed by Terry, and negotiated by him through the Title and Trust Company. Terry had only given him & in cash and some goods as his chare. He had never borrowed money from Terry, and never owed him a cent. On the contrary, Terry was considerably in his debt, and an account of some of the transactions was kept in an account-book.

The book was not put in as evidence, as counsel for the defence objected, and their objection was sustained by Judge Witt, who ruled that the book could not be admitted, as it was evidence in chief,

THE DIVISION OF PROCEEDS.

Taylor then went on to explain how the proceeds from the warrants were livided, and said that Terry used the warrants, knowing them to have been forged, and gave an illustration of how Terry held his pen when forging the enforcements. Out of the several claims collected by Terry Taylor eaid he had never received any money in cash, but had on one occasion received a large consignment of goods from Terry on account legs bext session.

Nicholas and his counsel have not given up all hope yet. The Governor is now ir only chance, and yesterday Mr. D. Richardson sent a petition to his Excellency asking for executive elemency. A copy of the records of the trial and other papers accompany the appeal, in which the attention of his Excellency is called to certain facts bearing on the case which were disclosed after sentence had been pronounced. which were disclosed after sentence had been pronounced.

Among other things, it is claimed that

Mrs. Mills on her death had acknowledged within the hearing of a witness, who can be produced, that she testified falsely against the accused. It is claimed, also, that she was unduly influenced by 'Squire Rogg. Dr. Magruder, a respectable practitioner, who at times attended Mrs. Mills, says that the woman was mentally weak, and very susceptible to the influence of others.
